

Carrying the torch for compounders.

We know that quality compounding starts with quality chemicals. That's why we conduct 14 tests and analyses on every ingredient and every lot, not just the initial lot, and reject almost 200 chemical lots each year. But it doesn't stop there. It also means providing the industry's best education and training programs (more than 115 in 2014) combined with more consulting pharmacists on-hand than anyone else and access to more than 8,000 formulas. What does all this add up to? Assurance that compounding pharmacists and their customers can experience quality without compromise.
