Product Overview

Compliance packaging enhances patient safety and the patient's overall experience. There are so many packaging choices available in today's fast-paced society. Although the mention of compliance packaging technology may call to mind visions of old plastic med-boxes that never quite matched up perfectly with a patient's needs, the market has, in fact, evolved into a technologically sophisticated and rapidly growing space that fulfills a wide variety of dispensing requirements. Like all technology, compliance packaging has in recent years grown more powerful, integrated, and complex.

There can be many reasons why patients do not comply with their medication schedules. Some patients may not understand why or how to take their medication, while others may have a visual impairment causing them difficulty in reading the fine print on medication containers. No matter what the cause, prescription compliance is a real problem. Medical professionals are working to solve this problem with tools and programs that educate, alert, remind, and encourage patients to stay on track with their medications.

Are you contributing to your patient's confidence, safety, and overall experience?

Compliance packaging can make this happen. DosePlanner makes it easy!
